Hooray! It's a brand new year — time for giggles, games, and good intentions! People like to make New Year's resolutions — that means little promises to try something fun or kind all year long.

But guess what? Your pet can join in too! Here are some fun New Year's resolutions for you and your animal bestie!

Walkies with wonder

If you've got a dog, make every walk an adventure! Pretend you're explorers — search for mystery pawprints and hidden treasure (like shiny pebbles or pinecones!). Why not write some fun walks down and put them in a box, too, so you can pick out a different walk every week!

Purr-fect playtime

Cats love to chase and pounce. This year, spend time playing with your cat - why not try a new game every day? And don't forget to let them 'win' by catching the toy at the end of your play session!

Small pet surprise

If you have a smaller pet like a rabbit, guinea pig, hamster or gerbil, why not build them a fun obstacle course? Use cardboard boxes and tunnels, and you can even hide some tasty treats for them to forage and find!

Bonus resolution - be kind, every day!

No matter what pet you have, promise to show them love every day — gentle strokes, yummy food, and lots of love and attention. You're such a big part of their world – make sure they know it!

nc newton clarke veterinary surgeons